Learn on Demand Systems uses a systematic approach based on adult learning theory and trusted methodologies to create the course that is right for you.

A goal without a plan is just a wish
We can start at a high level and work with you to analyze your business goals and identify gaps to create a training plan or perhaps a roadmap of multiple training assets for different audiences and knowledge levels.

We develop complete online or instructor-led courses that can include hands-on labs. We can also augment your team, creating the assets you need to develop an engaging learning product.

We have the tools to build your vision
Learn on Demand Systems has a full staff of learning professionals who specialize in adult learning theory, instructional design, graphic design, animation, and editing.

We use a team approach to create courseware and workshops in a variety of modalities, including instructor-led, online, and virtual online.

sales@learnondemandsystems.com

Online course development
Using SCORM-compliant industry standard tools to meet your needs, we work with you to identify course objectives, audiences, and timelines before we create an engaging online course that can incorporate hands-on labs, activities, and knowledge checks.

Virtual instructor-led course development
As the training industry rapidly moves to remote learning, our team can quickly transition your instructor-led training to virtual instructor-led.

Instructor-led course development
Classroom training continues to be a mainstay for many organizations. We can help you educate your audiences with activity-based in-person training.

Animations and videos
Animators, video producers, and voice talent complement the rest of our courseware teams to provide you with a modern and engaging solution.

Instructional design
Our staff of talented and tenured instructional designers have storied careers creating readiness content of all shapes and sizes.

Course production services
Need readiness staff to augment your courseware teams? We will provide you professionals with the skills to round out your team and create a great product.